(Mount Clipping in Space Below)

By Lawrence Marks

IT NOW seems almost certain that the Campaign Against Racial Discrimination, Britain's leading multi-racial civil rights movement, has been successfully taken over by an alliance of extreme left-wing groups.

The capture was engineered from the inside by the Guyanese assistant-secretary, Mr Johnny James, without the knowledge of the majority of the executive committee. The alliance was built up during the summer and early autumn, and sent into action at last weekend's stormy annual convention in London, where it gained majorities on the crucial resolutions of about 30 votes among 200 delegates.

Yesterday Mr James issued a typed statement under the CARD letterhead and the printed name of the West Indian chairman, Dr David Pitt, quoting Mao Tse-tung and saying in part:

"An alliance was built up of all militant coloured organisations and all militant native organisations of our blood brothers—a fusion of workers, students and intellectuals on all sides.

"We decided (i) that CARD must become and remain a broad mass of grass-roots organisations in which there will be all races, (ii) that it must be militant and it must be officered by the coloured sufferers of racial discrimination who know the problems and know the way to struggle against it, (iii) that without attacking the root cause, imperialist oppression, our struggle will not win support among coloured people and/or natives of Britain."

The statement is addressed to "white imperialist Press reporters," and refers to "the enemy and its white and coloured running dogs."

The takeover of CARD is important partly because it means a radical change in the organisation's character just when a major battle over the new Race Relations Bill is about to begin, and partly because it reveals genuine feelings of bitterness and resentment among the coloured community, which could find even more damaging expression outside the movement.

There has always been an unresolved conflict inside the movement: on one hand, the need to mobilise the mass of working-class immigrants as a lever to win an improvement in their conditions; on the other, the desire to be a multi-racial lobby for effective legislation.

Both points of view have been argued at executive meetings and at annual conventions. The second prevailed. Led by Anthony Lester, the 31-year-old English barrister who is chairman of its legal committee, CARD has conducted a brilliantly effective lobby which culminated last month in the Street Committee's strong recommendations on the content of the new law.

But this success has itself created a backlash of resentment against the white members of CARD's executive who are being accused of trying to dominate a coloured people's movement. Lobbying is by its nature private and privileged. Even if the new Race Relations Bill reaches the statute book without emasculation, it will take time to show results. Meanwhile the immigrants' grievances remain unredressed.

Behind the scenes the past year has been one of increasing acrimony on the executive committee about the aims of CARD.

The immediate instrument of the coup was a tiny, mainly white organisation called the London Workers' Committee, whose difference from dozens of other pebbles on the farther shores of the Left is probably discernible only to the trained Marxist eye.

Its principal luminary is a 66-year-old Tooting G.P., Dr Alex Tudor-Hart, a neat, precise, rather pedagogic Englishman.

The LWC claims to represent "the revolutionary wing of the British Working Class Movement." Says Tudor-Hart: "We have 12 active members."

Fringe Socialists, like amateur actors, tend to support one another's productions. The London Workers have an English representative, Dr Paul Noone, on the committee of another fragmentary outfit, the Caribbean Workers' Movement. And one of CWM's leaders is Johnny James.

James, a 40-year-old accountant and journalist, who parted company with the Communist Party four years ago, was co-opted on to CARD's executive shortly after last year's convention at the request of Dr Pitt. He is a tough, uncompromising Maoist. His close ally and fellow-member of the Caribbean Workers, Miss Julia Gaitskell, was already a paid office worker of CARD, brought in by Pitt, and a member of the executive. Both men have been active in Hackney, Pitt's G.L.C. constituency.

At the first meeting of the executive after last year's convention, Pitt proposed that James should conduct a voter registration drive in Hackney and four other London boroughs. James asked for £200 to cover the cost.

Several of the English and Indian members of the executive opposed this.

The dispute was the first of a series, growing in bitterness and abuse—James and Bennett on one side, with Pitt supporting them, and Lester, Miss Julia Gaitskell (the general secretary) and the non-Caribbeans on the other. By the time the convention opened last week-end, they were barely on speaking terms.

Meanwhile, James had begun to organise. His political base was the Caribbean October Congress, a body he founded two years ago and which is dedicated to fomenting revolution in the West Indies.

As part of the registration drive, he and Bennett began to encourage fresh groups to form. By the end of the summer, James says, they had enrolled 14 groups and about 250 members—90% of them militants. He also says that their subscriptions were paid into the CARD office.

This became the subject of angry dispute at the Convention, where it was suggested that subscriptions had been accepted at the door after the meeting had begun.

On the Friday evening Miss Gaitskell handed over a list of 32 affiliated organisations to the standing orders committee, headed by Miss Jocelyn Barrow, a Jamaican school teacher. When James's list was produced it contained 20 names which the executive 'claim' they had not seen.

The list was heavily peppered with the names of African student organisations, the Uganda Students Union, the Garvey Group, the Afro-Asian Liberation Front, the Tanzanian students' Zimbabwe. Another member of the standing orders committee, Mr Dipak Nandy, an Indian lecturer in English at the University of Kent, recalls that the dates showed many of the organisations as having been affiliated on October 29 and 30—an apparent last-minute rush.

James concedes that the list was not shown to Miss Gaitskell. He says that the affiliations were recorded in the office files and that she failed to check them. Miss Gaitskell says that, if they had paid their subscriptions, this fact would have been marked on the file cards from which she compiled her list. In the event, it was these groups which carried the day.

Lester and the moderates, nursing their wounds, say that the community work which groups of CARD members carry out painstakingly in their own localities will die out if the emphasis of CARD is now to be on Maoist revolution. James denies this—and he certainly has support among some local Left-wing CARD groups.

If his coup represents nothing more than an emotional identification with colonial freedom movements, CARD will presumably peter out in Maoist rhetoric. But sooner or later, the genuine feeling among non-political coloured people that they ought to conduct their own civil rights movement was bound to find expression. James may have caught the crest of the wave.

The episode was engineered from the inside by the American socialist, sergeant Mr. Johnny Jones, without the knowledge of the majority of the executive committee. The alliance was built up during the summer and early autumn, and sent the action of last weekend's stormy national convention in London, where it gained majorities on the crucial resolutions of about 80 votes among 200 delegates.

The statement is addressed as "Chief, Birmingham Press Reporters," and refers to "the company" and "our" writing and printing.

I. STEERING COMMITTEE: The proposal (included in the last mailing) to establish a steering (starting? executive?) committee was passed and the following people were elected to it at the October 30 meeting:

[redacted]

b6
b7C

Danny Schacter - 19 College Cross N.1 - NOR 5976

This committee met Tuesday night (Oct. 31) and will meet again on Sunday, November 5 at 2 PM at [redacted]

II. MEMO ON IMMIGRATION TO ENGLAND IN RELATION TO THE DRAFT: A preliminary draft of this leaflet has been finished. It is available at [redacted] and is being sent to a few relevant US and Canadian groups for their evaluation. Some further practical points of information must still be collected, however, before it can be published. In the next few days we urgently need volunteers to visit and telephone government offices to ask for information (about work permits, etc.). If you can help, please phone, immediately, [redacted] or leave a message at Stop It, [redacted]

b7C

III. STOP IT BUTTONS: Our first order of 2000 buttons has completely sold out (including 600 in the US, 50 in Bologna, Italy, and 50 in Paris). 4000 more are coming off the presses this Friday. If you would like more buttons for yourself, your friends, or groups you might be in touch with, please order them from [redacted]. They cost 1/ individually, but are 8d apiece for orders of 100 or more.

b6
b7C

IV. SPEAKERS' BUREAU: Requests for speakers from Stop It are heavy and we need more volunteers. Many of the proposed engagements involve free trips to such exciting places as Norwich, Hull, and Brighton. If you want to improve your podium style, here's your chance. The steering committee has asked [redacted] to serve as coordinator of our speakers' bureau; please call her at [redacted] to volunteer your services. Fees paid to speakers should be donated to the Stop It treasury.

b7C

V. PEACE NEWS FAIR: Stop It will have a booth at the P.N.F., Nov. 11, Kingsway Hall (near Holborn) from 11:30-5:00. [redacted] is in charge of setting up our booth. If you would like to help, please phone [redacted]

FINALLY, AND MOST IMPORTANT: A STOP IT RECEPTION PARTY - Sunday, Nov. 5, [redacted] 4 to 6 PM. [redacted] We have two visitors from "The Resistance" campaign in the US, [redacted] from the Chicago office and [redacted] from Berkeley. They would like to talk with us about the latest news from the Resistance in the States (what happened on Oct. 16, plans for Dec. 4, etc.), and also listen to us to learn about what Americans abroad are thinking and doing in participation in the resistance. They are leaving London next Tuesday for a brief tour of the Continent, and this Sunday will be a good time to meet and exchange news and ideas. (A small donation will be asked to cover the cost of the food.)

[redacted] and that another letter be sent to "Dialogue" Magazine, c/o CURW, Anabel Taylor Hall, CU.

New York airtel of 6/12/64 requested any information in Albany files concerning DAN SCHECTER, identified as Editor-in-Chief of "Dialogue" at CU.

110 HIGHLAND PLACE THACA, N.Y. BORN 6-27-42 - in NEW YORK, N.Y.

The correct name of this individual is DANIEL I. SCHECHTER. The following information, as contained in Albany files, appeared in various items in the "Cornell Daily Sun", a daily student newspaper published at CU as of the dates indicated:

November 15, 1961, item captioned "Dialogue Presents Variety of Student Political Views", identifies DANIEL I. SCHECHTER and [redacted] both of the class of 1964, [redacted]

N.Y. b6

September 28, 1962, item concerning a rally sponsored by the Cornell Liberal Union (CLU) on 9/27/62 to discuss the racial problem in Mississippi. DANIEL I. SCHECHTER, class of '64, introduced three speakers who visited Mississippi during past year.

AL 100-16892

October 8, 1962, item concerning a picket of Howard Johnsons in Horseheads, New York, to protest alleged discrimination policies of the chain's southern restaurants. DANIEL I. SCHECHTER, class of '64, is identified as the spokesman for the picketing group which was organized by the CLU as part of a national demonstration conducted by CORE.

May 10, 1963, item concerning rally held by the CLU on 5/9/63 to protest Birmingham Police brutality. DANIEL I. SCHECHTER, class of '64, identified as a CLU spokesman, was one of the speakers. He called the deprivation of the rights of Negroes a "cotton curtain".

November 12, 1963, item concerning various Cornell students aiding in the Civil Rights movement which states that DANIEL I. SCHECHTER, class of '64, has left school for a year to work in Harlem and that recently 6 families there, encouraged by SCHECHTER, withheld rent payments because of the decrepit status of their housing.

[redacted] item concerning a speech given at Cornell on that date by [redacted] DANIEL I. SCHECHTER, class of '64, is listed as the moderator of the program, co-sponsored by the Cornell Forum and "Dialogue" Magazine.

The CLU and Cornell Forum are officially recognized student organizations at CU. No information has been received or developed that they are under Communist influence or domination.

AL 100-16892

On June 16, 1964, [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] CU, advised that DANIEL I. SCHECHTER was admitted to the New York State School of Industrial and Labor Relations at Cornell in September, 1960. SCHECHTER, who was born June 27, 1942, in New York City, furnished his home address and that of his father, JERRY SCHECHTER, as 92 Van Cortlandt Park South, New York City. N.Y.

b6
b7C

SCHECHTER was granted a leave of absence effective June 10, 1963. He returned to Cornell in February, 1964, and was currently registered during the second semester of the 1963-64 school year. Since, February, 1964, he has resided at 110 Highland Place in Ithaca, New York.

Stop It Committee (Americans in Britain for US Withdrawal from Vietnam) has recently been injecting new spirit into the peace movement scene in this country. Here, Robert Hurwitt discusses the committee, its aims, activities, and future plans.

The emphasis is on resistance: resistance to Johnson's dirty war in every way that might be feasible for Americans living in Britain. The goals of Stop It Committee, however, go beyond their immediate demonstrations against American intervention in Vietnam and their support for American draft resisters. "The movement in America has come to see that they have to change the whole society," says Danny Schechter, a member of Stop It's nine-man executive committee. "We hope to help Britons see the war in a similar way." Stop It does more than just hope. The committee has a Speakers Bureau, run by Terry Raymond, an attractive young redhead and another member of the executive committee. She dispatches speakers on the war and on British complicity in America's war effort to schools, colleges, and local groups.

Terry's husband, Aubrey, runs a study group for the committee, investigating both these problems in depth. The study programme is divided into two actual study groups, each meeting every other Sunday evening. One group, says Mr Raymond, "is just sort of a general meeting for people to talk about the relationship of Vietnam policy to the Cold War, going back to about 1935." This group, though organised at first simply to get everybody interested in the problem, has "a pretty high level of discussion now."

The second study group concentrates on Britain; its political structure, the protest movement here, and the country's participation in the war. At present, the bulk of the work of this second group is focused on British complicity in Vietnam. So far, says Aubrey, the group has discovered some "35 British companies producing material for the war; a rise of 500% in small arms exports to the United States, and a rise of 300% in chemical exports over last year; and we have information on at least two British universities with US Defence Department contracts."

In addition, the group is looking into "major American war producers with British subsidiaries," and British investments in south-east Asia, as well as "a couple of rumours that napalm is being produced here."

Major action

Based on this research, Stop It Committee is planning a major action for March. Details for the demonstration are still in the early planning stages (guerrilla theatre projects are being considered, according to Danny Schechter). The present plan is to have a week of demonstrations round the entire country, tentatively set for March 11-15, focusing on the British industries that aid the American war effort. The demonstrations would be organised by local British groups, Mr Raymond said, with information compiled by Stop It Committee.

David Robinson, of Vietnam Solidarity Campaign, one of the groups invited to participate in the March actions in London, said that his organisation would sponsor a mass demonstration for the end of the week. "March 1950," he explained, "was the first big demonstration in Vietnam against intervention. The Vietnamese have called for demonstrations to commemorate it. The theme of the VSC action will be 'solidarity with the Vietnamese people'."

Cooperation between VSC and Stop It Committee is, in itself, a hopeful sign for the future of the peace movement in Britain. Stop It also worked with VSC on the October 22 demonstration at Grosvenor Square. This stands in marked contrast to the Angry Arts Week last June, the first major action of Stop It, when VSC and Stop It members clashed over whether VSC could sell NLF literature and distribute copies of the decisions of the War Crimes Tribunal.

Since then, Stop It has engaged in a series of small, solo actions, most of them designed to get publicity for the organisation. "Publicity is important," says Patty Gordon, a member of Stop It, "because it lets people know that many Americans in Britain are opposed to this war." And Harry Pincus, a member of the executive committee and, with Schechter and the Raymonds, one of the founders of Stop It, adds: "Before we were on the scene people demonstrating against the war were labelled anti-American. Now they can't dismiss these actions so easily."

During the summer the committee engaged in several projects aimed at American tourists, including the publication of a tourist's guide filled with information about the war. On October 16 and December 4 demonstrations were held by the committee in support of the anti-draft demonstrations in America. Altogether 18 members of Stop It have turned in their draft cards, some to the US government, others to the NLF, in protest against the war.

Delinquency

The committee's support for American draft resisters is generally considered their most important single project. Through an advertisement in The Times some weeks ago they launched a drive to collect funds to aid draft resisters. Along with the funds so far obtained have come numerous offers of assistance, including places to stay and jobs for American draft resisters who want to stay in Britain. The committee holds regular draft counselling sessions each Wednesday afternoon from 2-5 at 8 Rosslyn Hill (near Belsize Park tube station), and it is also producing a pamphlet on immigration to Britain and its relation to the draft.

Harry Pincus explained that, "though a person cannot be extradited for draft delinquency, all sorts of informal things can be done to get him out of the country. There is nothing comparable here to the landed immigrant status that you can get in Canada."

Elliott Isenberg, a graduate student at the London School of Economics from Queens, New York, is one of two members of the committee who has received a delinquency notice for having turned in his draft card at the October 16 demonstration. "It means that my draft board sent me a form letter saying that my offence is non-possession of a draft card," he said. He has 30 days in which to appeal this notice before being classified 1-A, which means potential cannon fodder.

Elliott's situation when he refuses to be inducted will be a difficult one. "I personally am planning to go back to the States eventually, probably sometime after I finish my degree," he told this reporter. "Obviously I expect a trial and jail, but maybe . . . if this thing grows and grows in size it'll be harder for them to prosecute."

Egg-rolling?

Stop It has about 350 members in London and a loose sort of structure. Its position is for immediate withdrawal of all American troops from Vietnam, but, within that position, it tries to include as many ideas as possible. "It's sort of a place," Pincus said, "where people can come who are opposed to the war for whatever the reason and just do their thing."

Many members of the committee, however, feel that this is not enough. They want to broaden the base of their committee and have it serve as a focus, in Danny Schechter's words, "for building a movement in this country." "Americans can't build a British movement," he says, "but I think that we all want to build some sort of international system; a common movement which challenges American domination and its manifestations in various countries."

All the members of the committee feel that there is something wrong with the peace movement in Britain today. "I think that I have, up till now, nothing but contempt for the British peace movement," says Michael Haag, who otherwise loves the country. "Every Easter they have their annual egg-rolling rally, institutionalised, like a Bank Holiday. It loses its force."

And Paula Maenak, a middle-aged member, adds, "This committee is better than most of the movement here because it talks about social change. You can't have peace without social change."

Some members of the British peace movement are wary about this sort of criticism coming from Americans here. It seems to smack of arrogance. "Stop It is an elitist group," said one, "that concentrates on getting publicity for publicity's sake. It's mainly a small group of students at LSE trying to lead without any troops."

David Robinson, however, is more optimistic. "The way they got involved in October 22," he said, "and in this British complicity thing (they're doing most of the research) is a welcome sign." This sign, and the projected demonstrations for March, indicate that Stop It Committee, whether or not it achieves its goal of helping to build a British radical movement, will certainly provide some major impetus in that direction.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The next general meeting of the Stop It Committee will take place at 7:30 on Monday, 15 Jan., at the LSE. (Go to the main lobby to find out the room number.)

This is a critically important meeting; It is essential that all interested in the future of the committee attend.

Items on the Agenda include:

- 1) an election.
- 2) the Support Committee report (draft resistance).
- 3) the March Project report (nationwide campaign).
- 4) report on the Stop It office problem:
  - a) re-location of office
  - b) office staff
- 5) Speakers Bureau report.

This is clearly a meeting you can't afford to miss. Come with your 30 shillings dues. (See accompanying sheet.)

An election to the Steering Committee will take place. The organizational plan of the Stop It Committee provides that 3 of the 9 member board resign (from the board, not the committee as a whole) every three months. Two members have already done so: [REDACTED] Three new members of the Steering Committee will be elected.

b7C

The Support Committee will make its report. In response to the petition published in The Times on Dec. 5, the Resistance has received several hundred pounds and many offers of help to draft resisters. It is now co-ordinating these offers and setting up an organization. This is being done in conjunction with nationwide circulation of the petition. Details of these activities will be discussed at the meeting.

Some of the results of the research undertaken by the people involved in the March Project will be publicly revealed for the first time at the meeting. [REDACTED] will report on the information gathered about US economic power in Britain, with its resultant political pressures, and the extent of British involvement in Southeast Asia; they will also discuss the work going on towards a nationwide campaign in March growing out of this research.

b7C

If you wish further information on the meeting, call

[REDACTED]

b6
b7C

*

URGENT: There will be a meeting of the Steering Committee on [REDACTED] at 4:00 at [REDACTED] house: [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] It is imperative that all members of the Steering Committee attend to discuss procedural questions relating to the general meeting next day.

b6
b7C

This steering committee meeting is, of course, like others, open to the generality.

Title: DANIEL ISAAC SCHECHTER

Character: SECURITY MATTER - ANARCHIST

Synopsis: Subject continues to be associated with Ramparts Magazine, Cambridge Iron and Steel, and Old Mole Chapter of SDS.

- P -

DETAILS:

BS T-1 advised on August 7, 1969, that DANIEL SCHECHTER continues to be associated with Ramparts Magazine as one of its staff writers. He is also associated with Cambridge Iron and Steel (CI&S) and is connected with the Old Mole Chapter of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS). A characterization of SDS is contained in the appendix of this report.

BS T-1 on August 7, 1969, furnished a pamphlet entitled, "An Open Letter to the Movement from Cambridge Iron and Steel."

In this letter CI&S was described as "a corporation of movement people which was promised a total of $100,000 of which $25,000 has so far been given by   CI&S has functioned as a source of funds for movement activity."

STUDENTS FOR A DEMOCRATIC SOCIETY

A source has advised that the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), as it is known today, came into being at a founding convention held at Port Huron, Michigan, in June, 1962. From an initial ideological posture of "participatory democracy," the current line of the national leadership reveals an adherence to Marxism-Leninism.

[redacted] called for the building of a revolutionary Marxist-Leninist movement. The program of SDS has moved from involvement in civil rights struggles to an anti-Vietnam war position and finally to its present advocacy of an anti-imperialist line, linking up the oppressed peoples of Asia, Africa and Latin America with the black liberation movement in the United States. China, Vietnam and Cuba are regarded as countries which are leading the world-wide struggles against United States imperialism. On the other hand, SDS regards the Soviet Union as an imperialist power and does not support the policies of that country.

SDS maintains a National Office in Room 206, 1608 West Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois. Its official paper, "New Left Notes" reflects the line of the national leadership and program adopted at meetings of the National Council and National Interim Committee (NIC). Three national officers and a NIC of eleven members are elected each year during a June National Convention.

SDS Regional Offices and university and college chapters elect delegates to National Council meetings wherein program and ideology are debated, but each Region and chapter is autonomous in nature and is free to carry out independent policy and programs reflective of local conditions.

SCHECHTER received a Bachelor of Science degree in Industrial Labor Relations at Cornell University 2/3/65. In 9/66, SCHECHTER left the United States to attend school in England and was due to graduate on 10/1/68 from the London School of Economics, London, England. By means of a suitable pretext by a Special Agent of the New York Office, it was determined that SCHECHTER received a Masters degree in 10/68 in London, England.

To date, there is no information to indicate that SCHECHTER has married.

SCHECHTER currently resides at 38 Dartmouth St., Somerville, Mass., which is also the residence of a number of New Left activists who are subjects of investigation by the Boston Office.

In the past, subject has been listed as one of the researchers for Ramparts magazine; and at the present time he is news director for the FM Radio Station WBCN, Boston, Mass.

Referenced Boston letter recommended no further investigation of subject in view of his affiliation with the news media and in view of the fact that his activities did not meet the old ADEX criteria.

Referenced Bureau memo set forth revised ADEX criteria. A further review of subject's activities reflect that these activities do not meet these revised criteria. Boston is, therefore, recommending against any further action and is recommending that this case be placed in a closed status.
